Chapter 1 by Story Wars

Ashley is a very pretty girl. She is 10 years old. Her two favorite colors are green and blue. Her favorite special is gym. She hates art. She thinks that Ms. Mintier is weird, mean, and ugly. (Notice: Ms. Mintier's name only has Ms. It doesn't have Mrs. So that means that Ms. Mintier isn't married!!!!!!) I don't think that anyone would want to marry Ms. Mintier.

Chapter 2 by Rix Quill

But Ashley, at ten, doesn't know everything.

Ms Mintier won Holiday Princess of Ohio when she was seventeen. She is married to a politician and they have two children.

Ashley feels that belittling others gives her a sense of power over that person. Her younger sister, Maggie, gets a lot of this kind of treatment. Maggie ends up getting the blame for all wrong doings. Ashley is manipulative.

"The helpless cat's gone two-tone. Who put bleach on Tabby's back?" asked Mom.

"Maggie did it, Mom. She hid the bleach bottle under her bed. I saw her do it - poor Tabs," said Ashley. Lying came easy.

Maggie was grounded for a week. She had to sit at the dinner table when Mom and Dad were not looking. Whenever Maggie made faces she got caught.

Ashley tends not to attract blame or criticism, after all, she is very pretty and she knows from experience that beauty is an impenetrable shield.

Chapter 3 by _Unknown_

She got in trouble at school a lot. Well, actually she blamed it on other people so she's not the one who actually gets in trouble.

Everyone at school liked her. She was very popular. Everyone knew that she was Ms. Mintier's least favorite student.

But that was the past. She is now 13. She basically stayed the same since she was 10, except she got even brattier. She still manipulates Maggie, who is now 8 years old.

But one day, Maggie stood up for herself. Maggie was not the type to do that.

"Why is the window cracked?" asked Mom with a very stern voice. Maggie came in first to see the window. Then came Ashley, looking as innocent as ever.

"Who would ever do such a thi-" Ashley started to say but got interrupted by Maggie.

"Mom, it was Ashley! I was outside, looking through the window when I saw Ashley kissing her boyfriend. She saw that I was looking and threw a big book at the window to distract me!" Maggie shouted.

Again, Ashley tried to act all innocent.

"What? I'm not even allowed to have a boyfriend! And mom usually doesn't even let us invite people over!" Ashley yelled.

Mom started to believe Maggie.

"Ashley, was that the time I let you invite that boy? I am very surprised Ashley. I let someone come over to our house and then you break the rules like that? First of all, you are not allowed to have a boyfriend. Second of all, you are not allowed to invite anyone over!"

After that, Ashley got in big trouble and got punished a lot. Getting hit by her mom, getting grounded, and getting scolded by her dad. She deserved it. She cried, and she cried a lot. She was not used to being treated this way. It was always Maggie crying and getting punished. But that was her own fault.

The next day at school, Maggie had spread a bad rumor. Ashley first heard people whispering things about her, but couldn't make out what they were saying.

"Did you know that Ashley... Oh, I heard that Ashley... Maggie told me... I wonder if it's true that Ashley..."

Ashley wanted to find out what they were talking about. As she walked in the hallways, people would stare at her and then look away and giggle. She would see people covering their mouths, trying not to laugh as she passed. She even passed Maggie in the hallway who was laughing so hard that she was almost crying. When she noticed Ashley, she looked at her with an evil 'Mwa ha ha!' look on her face.

She walked into her first period class and saw that all eyes were on her. Her face got red as she sat down. People were still laughing. She asked one girl what was happening after no one was looking.

"What's happening? Why is everyone laughing at me?" she asked.

"You really haven't heard what Maggie said?" the girl asked, trying not to laugh. Ashley shook her head and waited for a response.

"She told everyone about your deepest and darkest secret! I can't believe you actually did that!" she exclaimed.

"What secret?" Ashley asked.

"Well, Maggie said..."
